Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 5, there is no antecedent basis for "the slots".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1,2 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bays, et al.-4884572.

Bays discloses a bioabsorbable tack having an cannulated oblong head 15, and a cannulated shaft 14 with frustoconical barbs 16,17 and 18 extending around the circumference of the shaft. The head is perpendicular to the axis of the shaft. The needle 30 would be the claimed guidewire used in the method claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3731

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 3,4,8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bays, et al.-'572 in view of Torrie, et al.-5380334.

Bays discloses the invention as claimed with the exception of the angled head, the head barbs and the attachment of tissue to bone. However, Torrie discloses a tack with an angled head, slots in the barbs and the step of placing the tack through tissue and into a drilled hole in bone. It would have been obvious to have provided the head at an angle as this allows the head to sit flush against the soft tissue-see col. 7 lines 53-66. It would have been obvious to have provided the head with barbs, as this allows for firm embedment in the soft tissue without causing necrosis. It would have been obvious to use Bays's device in the manner disclosed by Torrie, as Bays discloses that the device can be used in methods of repair of any body tissue such as cartilage, bone, skin and ligaments.

Claims 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bays, et al.-'572 in view of Zang-5522843.

Bays discloses the invention as claimed with the exception of the slots in the barbs. Zang discloses a bioabsorbable tack with barbs having longitudinal slots. It would have been obvious to have provided the barbs of bays with slots, as taught by Zang, as these allow for tissue ingrowth-see Zang- col. 5 lines 14-37-which better stabilizes the tack in place.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-10 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-10 of U.S. Patent No. 6517564.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the application claims are merely broader in scope than those of the patent, and therefore the patent claims anticipate the application claims. Under these circumstances, it is proper to reject these claims under obvious-type double patenting.
